Equity and Access to Blood Cancer Care in the Black Community

A FREE EDUCATIONAL EVENT

SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 2025

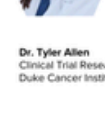

2:00 PM - 4:00 PM (DINNER FOLLOWING)

Hayti Heritage Center, 804 Old Fayetteville Street Durham, NC 27701

SPEAKERS

Terrell D. Coring, PharmD, MD
Hematology/Oncology Fellow
Duke University School of Medicine

Dr. Tyler Allen
Clinical Trial Researcher
Duke Cancer Institute

PROGRAM

Accessibility to care is critical to cancer health equity. Mistrust of the health care system, difficulty understanding medical information, and misinformation about clinical trials are common among people of color. These barriers can make accessing quality blood cancer treatment challenging. This program will help participants gain a better understanding of blood cancer, self-advocacy, diagnosis, and treatment. Attendees will also learn about the importance of clinical trials.

In addition, participants will learn about resources available in their community, support and services provided by LLS, and how to access care. Plan to join us for this event focused on addressing blood cancer care in the Black community. Patients are encouraged to bring their caregivers and family members.

LIVESTOCK SCIENCE CAMP

Who: 36 youth ages 15-17 years of age with a desire to learn more about Science of Livestock (Beef Cattle, Dairy Cattle, Goats, Horses, Poultry, Sheep, Swine)

What: Hands-on learning on Nutrition, Genetics, Health, Physiology, Reproduction, Engineering, Food Safety, Careers...

When: Applications January-March 2025, Camp June 15-20, 2025

Where: Educational Farms, Teaching Laboratories, Local Animal Farms and Businesses, NC State Dining Hall, NC State Dormitory

Why: A former camper stated "This was actually one of the best experiences I have had. Coming from "big city" I was a 1-1000 kid who had experienced a lifestyle of agriculture. From leadership to hands on learning, it doesn't get any better. Dr. Pickworth set the bar so high I don't believe any camp will top that. What other camp gives you hands on experience everyday 100% of the time? You have really boosted my ag experience and you're the reason that I will be 100% majoring in AG!"
