

Grade 5: Curriculum Map

EL Education’s Grades 3–5 comprehensive literacy curriculum is 2 hours per day of content-based literacy:

- Module lessons (60 minutes of daily instruction): explicitly teach and formally assess all standards and strands of the Common Core State Standards (CCSS) for English Language Arts and Literacy
- Additional Language and Literacy (ALL) Block (60 minutes of daily instruction): provides additional practice and differentiated support for all students

The module lessons and ALL Block work together to help students develop literacy skills as they build knowledge about the world.

The ALL Block addresses five areas: independent reading; additional work with complex text; reading and speaking fluency/grammar, usage, and mechanics; writing practice; word study/vocabulary. For additional information on the ALL Block, refer to EL Education’s 3–5 Language Arts Curriculum introduction at the beginning of this book and the Implementing the ALL Block introduction to your Module 1 ALL Block Teacher Guide and Supporting Materials.

Structure of a Module

- Each module provides eight weeks of instruction, broken into three shorter units. Each module includes:
 - A final performance task that is a more supported project, often involving research
 - Six assessments (two per unit), which are almost always “on-demand”; students complete an independent task on reading, writing, speaking, and/or listening

Structure of a Year of Instruction

- There are four modules per grade level.
- Teachers should teach the modules in order, beginning with Module 1 (which lays the foundation for both teachers and students regarding classroom culture and instructional routines).

How to Read This Map

The purpose of this section is to provide a high-level summary of each module and name the standards explicitly taught and formally assessed within them. The charts that follow outline for each module:

- Focus: The “focus” is the same across the Grades 3–5 band and signals the progression of literacy skills across the year as well as alignment to the CCSS instructional shifts.
- Title: This signals the topic students will be learning about (often connected to social studies or science).
- Description: This tells the basic “story” of the eight-week arc of instruction: the literacy skills, content knowledge, and central text(s).
- Texts: These texts are ones that all students either read themselves or hear read aloud. The text in bold is the central text for a given module: the text(s) with which students spend the most time. Recall that texts can be complex based on both qualitative and quantitative measures. Texts are listed in order from most quantitatively complex (based on Lexile® measure) to least quantitatively complex. Texts near the bottom of the list are often complex in ways not measured by the Lexile tool: meaning/purpose, text structure, language, and/or knowledge demands. Within a given module, the list shows the wide variety of texts students read, write, and speak about using evidence as they build knowledge about the topic. For a procurement list of specific texts that need to be purchased for use with the curriculum, visit our website.
- Lexile: This details the quantitative range of complexity for the given CCSS grade band—in this case, Grades 3–5.
- Performance Task: This is a culminating project, which takes place during Unit 3 of every module. Performance tasks are designed to help students synthesize and apply their learning from the module in an engaging and authentic way. Performance tasks are scaffolded, and almost always include peer critique and revision. Performance tasks are not “on-demand” assessments. (Note: The End of Unit 3 Assessment often addresses key components of the performance task.)
- Unit-Level Assessments
 - Each unit includes two assessments, most of which are “on-demand” and designed to show what students know or can do on their own.
 - Mid-unit assessments typically, though not always, are reading assessments: text-based answers.
 - End of unit assessments typically, though not always, are writing assessments: writing from sources.
 - Most assessments have a heavy emphasis on academic vocabulary, particularly determining words in context.
 - Assessments are designed to be curriculum-embedded opportunities to practice the types of skills needed on state assessments.

– The curriculum map below lists the title of each assessment, CCSS assessed, and the format.

- Selected response (multiple choice questions)
- Short constructed response (short answer questions)
- Extended response (longer writing or essays of the type that is scored using the Grades 3–5 opinion, informative, and narrative writing rubrics (either on-demand or scaffolded))
- Speaking and listening (discussion or oral presentation)
- Scaffolded essay (involving planning, drafting, and revision)
- Standards: For each module, the standards formally assessed are indicated with a check mark.

Note: The ALL Block is not shown in this curriculum map because it does not include formal assessments; however, it does include frequent opportunities for informal assessment of the standards, and therefore is a critical component of this comprehensive curriculum. As stated above, the ALL Block for a given module is on the same topic as the module lessons and supports, extends, and works in conjunction with those lessons. Teachers should use assessment results from module lessons as one data point to inform their homogeneous groupings for ALL Block instruction.

Consider spending significant time orienting to this map before the school year begins to determine which standards will repeat and which will not, in order to know where to prioritize time when considering pacing in the module. Pay close attention to those standards addressed only in Module 4 to ensure realistic pacing across the year so these standards are taught and assessed.

Stories of Human Rights

	Module 1	Module 2	Module 3	Module 4
Focus	Becoming a Close Reader and Writing to Learn	Researching to Build Knowledge and Teach Others	Considering Perspectives and Supporting Opinions	Gathering Evidence and Speaking to Others
Module Title	Stories of Human Rights	Biodiversity in the Rainforest	Athlete Leaders of Social Change	The Impact of Natural Disasters
Description	Students launch the year by building their close reading skills. They read the novel Esperanza Rising by Pam Muñoz Ryan, and apply their new learning about human rights as one lens through which to interpret the characters and themes in this rich novel. Through close reading, interpretation, and analysis of fiction and non-fiction texts, students begin to build their understanding of human rights. Throughout the first unit, students closely read selected articles from the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) related to events in Esperanza Rising where human rights are threatened. They write a four-paragraph literary essay comparing the response of two characters to a selected event from the novel, and describe how each character responds to the event. In the final unit, students plan, write, and ultimately perform monologues based on events from Esperanza Rising where human rights are threatened.	In this module, students read to build knowledge about the rainforest and analyze author’s craft in narrative writing to build proficiency in writing first-person narratives about the rainforest. In Unit 1, they build background knowledge on biodiversity in the rainforest in order to understand why scientists, like Meg Lowman in The Most Beautiful Roof in the World by Kathryn Lasky, study the rainforest. Having read texts about deforestation, students research using several print and digital sources to identify ways they can help the rainforest, and the challenges associated with being an ethical consumer, in order to participate in a collaborative discussion. In Unit 2, students explore how authors of narrative texts about the rainforest help the reader understand what it is like in the rainforest by analyzing author’s use of figurative, and concrete and sensory language. With a deeper understanding of author’s craft, in Unit 3 students write first-person narratives, building out a scenario from The Most Beautiful Roof in the World using concrete and sensory language to describe the rainforest as though they were actually there.	In this module, students consider the factors that contribute to the success of professional athletes as leaders of social change. They read about a number of professional athletes who have been leaders of social change. Students begin by learning about Jackie Robinson through Promises to Keep: How Jackie Robinson Changed America, written by Jackie’s daughter, Sharon. Students gather factors that led to Jackie Robinson’s success in leading social change and then develop an opinion on which factor (or factors) were most important in his success. Students finish the module by reading about other athletes who were leaders of social change, beginning with Jim Abbott. They research and write essays to compare and contrast the factors that contributed to the success of the athletes they study with those of Jackie Robinson. Once students have read about a few athletes, they then consider the common factors that contribute to being an effective leader of social change and work in pairs to create a multimedia presentation highlighting three of those factors. For the performance task, students work in groups to create a poster highlighting a personal quality that effective leaders of change need to have.	In this module, students read literary and informational texts to understand the impact of natural disasters on places and people. They begin by researching natural disasters in expert groups, reading informational texts, and creating PSAs (public service announcements) about how to stay safe during a natural disaster. Students then read and analyze literary texts about the aftermath of natural disasters including poems, songs, and Eight Days: A Story of Haiti by Edwidge Danticat—a story about a boy trapped under his house for eight days after the 2010 earthquake in Haiti. They analyze the way the illustrations and visuals in videos contribute to the meaning, tone, and beauty of a text. Students then analyze how the narrator’s or speaker’s point of view influences how events are described. At the end of the module, they take action to help others prepare for a natural disaster. They research supplies to include in an emergency preparedness kit and write opinion essays on the most important items to include. For the performance task, they present their PSAs to a live audience, unpack an emergency preparedness kit giving the rationale for the items included, and distribute an informational leaflet.

Common Core State Standards for ELA & Literacy Formally Assessed, by Module

- In the curriculum map below, any specific CCSS with a check mark indicates that standard is formally assessed in the given module.
- Some standards are formally assessed in multiple modules.
- Because of the integrated nature of the standards, even standards that are not formally assessed are often embedded in instruction throughout every module (e.g., RL/RI.1). Refer to the “Unit-at-a-Glance” in the Unit Overview to determine which standards are addressed (even if not formally assessed) in the instruction of each lesson.
- Some standards are not applicable in an on-demand assessment context since they happen over a span of time (e.g., R.10 or W.10). In the curriculum map below, these standards are noted as “integrated throughout.”
- Many standards (e.g., W.2) have a main standard and then subcomponents (e.g., W.2a). Sometimes, students’ mastery of the entirety of this standard is scaffolded across multiple modules. Therefore, in the curriculum map below, the “parent” standard is checked only if all components of that standard are formally assessed within that particular module. Otherwise, just the specific components are checked.
