GLOBAL POINTS OF PROGRESS - Congo: Congo has hired its first female soccer coach. Maguy Safi has been appointed to head the new women's team of Tout Puissant Mazembe, one of the largest and most popular soccer clubs in Africa. Despite being a champion athlete and holding a degree in physical education and sports management, Ms. Safi often faced overt discrimination and sexist remarks when applying for coaching positions. But she knew from experience that the field was changing and continued to work toward her professional goals. She hopes to continue breaking down stereotyp[es about women in soccer, and eventually coach a national team.
