If you or your child sees a threat of violence posted on social media, report it immediately to our anonymous tip line, (919) 856-1911, your school administration or law enforcement.

Remind your child not to share or forward until law enforcement has had a chance to investigate. Sharing threats spreads misinformation, causes panic and disruption for families, and could quickly result in consequences for your child.

Kids don't inform you? . . .The Hi-Times does! The Hi-Times is available to students, faculty, and parents at Broughton High School. Some parents have indicated an interest in receiving the student newspaper at home. Mailed subscriptions can be purchased for $45 a year. This will include our Welcome Back issue in the fall as well as the ever-popular senior issue in May. To subscribe to The Hi-Times, fill out online subscription form:

GLOBAL POINTS OF PROGRESS - India: Scientists in India have identified the world's hardest self-healing material, which could have applications in aerospace engineering and consumer electronics. Self-healing materials have been studied for decades, especially as a means to extend the life spans of buildings, automobiles, and kitchen products. Yet most of the world's known for self-healing substances are soft and opaque, and often require activation through heat or light exposure, limiting their uses.
