GLOBAL POINTS OF PROGRESS -SOUTH AFRICA: Anti-poaching efforts are seeing results for rhinos in South Africa. The country's environmental affairs office reported a significant decline in the number of rhinoceros poaching incidents in 2018. And it's the third year that those numbers have fallen. Officials say the drop is due to better security measures for the animals among other policies aimed at saving them.

STUDENT ANNOUNCEMENTS [GENERAL]

The Broughton International Festival will take place TODAY from 5-7 PM in the Cafeteria. This joyful event will include wonderful student performances (songs, dances, drumming, poetry readings, etc.), a fashion show, cultural booths, and delicious food, all to represent our students' rich cultural diversity. The food will be catered by our excellent Foods students, under the direction of Chef Farris, and they will be demonstrating the Montagnard cuisine they have been learning about from our custodial staff. It will be free to join in the festivities; the food will cost $3 per person.

The sign up to audition for the award-winning and world-traveling Broughton Vocal Music program are now available. The audition days are March 18-20, 2019 beginning at 3:00 PM. Be prepared to sing a 16-32 measure excerpt of a song that highlights your best singing. It is recommended that your song is accompanied in some way (piano, track, guitar, etc.). The sign-up sheets are outside the chorus room (2214). If you have any question, please see Ms. Conley.

The North Carolina Department of Information Technology, along with Governor Cooper, is participating in Girls Go CyberStart, a free, online, cybersecurity competition for girls in high school grades 9-12. Through this program, students will be able to compete against students from 25 other states in a series of puzzle-solving and information technology challenges to earn scholarship money, prizes, and money for their schools. At least 10 students from our state will get $500 scholarships. Students and teachers do not have to have previous experience in coding, cybersecurity, or information technology in order to participate. This is the second year our state has participated in the program, which was very successful in its inaugural year. Many students loved participating and having the opportunity to be introduced to cybersecurity as a career option. Currently, there are 22,000 unfilled information technology jobs in North Carolina. Registration is now open and closes March 25, 2019. Students can begin playing on March 20. We would love to have a big group representing North Carolina this year!
