

I cannot say thank you enough to the families of Adams Elementary! The start of the new school year has been unlike anything we could have ever imagined. Your patience and support throughout the past few weeks fuels our staff to keep leaning and working to provide every student with a quality learning experiences. We have made mistakes, but we are using those experiences to help us improve. Please continue to reach out to your teachers and let them know what has worked well for you family, as well as what we can do to improve your remote learning experience. Working together we will make it through this pandemic knowing we put our children's needs first!

Jonathan Hegedus, Principal

During the first 2 weeks of school we have noticed how excited our students are to see each other, and their need to connect with friends. Starting next week Adams will be having Virtual Lunch Clubs for students from each grade level to get online and talk with their friends from other classes. An administrator or member of the specialist team will host and monitor the google meet from 12:00 –12:30, and send out the google meet code through Google Classroom on their assigned day.

Istation

This year all students, K-5 will have access to Istation. Students will be able to take a reading screening at home in September, which will help teachers individualize instruction and interventions. This screening will not be used as grade, but your teacher will share the results with you.

All students will also have access to the adaptive curriculum, which will help students practice the reading skills they need to strengthen. The lessons will advance as the student masters different skills. More information will be coming soon on how to access and use this resource.
