

Supernova Newsletter: Week of 2/24/2020

Social Studies:

Students will be taking their benchmark exam this week. After exams are completed students will be moving on to classical civilizations, starting in Greece. Our focus for Greek and Roman civilizations will be forms of government.

Math:

Students will continue working on decimal operations. This week we will focus on decimal division.

Language Arts:

This week in ELA students are continuing to read their new text "Flush" by Carl Hiaasen. Students have begun reading and discussing the point of view of the narrator, Noah Underwood. Throughout this week students will be characterizing the main characters of the story, determining the narrator's point of view of different characters and the setting, and learning the elements of plot in stories. Throughout the next few weeks expect students to come home with a "Flush" novel and to be reading a chapter per night. Students will have comprehension checks throughout the unit.
