

Friday, March 27, 2020

Hello Everyone, this is Principal Jenkins. Today is Friday, March 27 and here are just a few announcements for you. By now you have probably heard from your child's teacher and I am sure that the students and teachers were happy to connect, even if only for a few moments. If you happened to miss the last message parents, we are now going to put transcripts of the phone messages on the school's website so that you can click on the link that's there now for the last one and in the future every time I make a call you can always go and check there.

Regarding yearbook orders, PTA has extended the deadline to get your order in. The new deadline is Friday, April 10 and the link is also on our school's website as well the online learning resource page and food distribution page. When you go on our website for your convenience those are the first things you will see so that you don't have to go and click on any tabs or subheadings.

Last, but not least, we are going to have a virtual school spirit week and we are excited about that. Hopefully you have seen that on Twitter and on the school's website you can click on where it says, "school spirit week." It starts on Monday and is something that we can do as a school family to lift our spirits and get us all away from the TV and looking at all the things that are going on around us. Sometimes it's a little stressful and it's a little much and so we just wanted to do something to have some fun and virtually connect. Details are listed there for you for your convenience.

Parents and families thank you again so much for your continuous support and we hope all is well. Take good care and we hope to see you soon virtually next week as we participate in Yates Mill's spirit week.
