Attendance

Being present and engaged each day is just as important in our remote learning environment as when students are in the school buildings. Our teachers will be working hard to create engaging lessons and meaningful activities for your child. We know you will also be juggling home and work responsibilities. Together, we can ensure our kids are present each day to continue to grow and thrive. A student is considered present for daily attendance during a remote learning day if either of these statements are true:

- If a student completes their daily assignments, either online or offline; and/or if a student is present in synchronous instruction.
- If a student has a daily check-in, a two-way communication, with a classroom teacher.
