Letters from the Editors-in-Chief

Uma Bhat

This year was, counterintuitively, the year I met more people than I ever have before. While most friends met their freshman year or sophomore year, the online environment was deceptively conducive to forming unions between students who would have otherwise never thought to interact with one another in the muggy hallways of high school; groupchats that spent class periods “hahaing” each text proclaiming the amount of rubbish someone had pasted into their assignments, coffee breaks after each mind-numbling exam, runs by the lake and heartfelt conversations - over Zoom, or with a mask slipped on. People that I could not imagine getting along with became my closest friends. People who I was at first intimidated by turned out to be the most softhearted people I know. People who I thought were the epitome of perfection turned out to have flaws of their own (it goes both ways). And while the idea of a picture-perfect senior year, packaged nicely with a bow on top, has been marketed to me since the release of HSM 3 in 2008 (I think...), I truly, in an epicly cliché declaration, would not have had this year any other way. The people who made an effort to reach out to me, and the people I made an effort to reach out to, will always hold a special place in my heart.

Ameena Farooqui

Hey Senior Class!! Whoop Whoop! We've graduated high school! It's insane to think that these four years have gone already, and so fast. The bustling halls of Green Hope, walks to the mods, dances, and packed football games feel like a distant memory, yet they're something I will never forget. I remember freshman orientation when I went in feeling so intimidated by the seniors-oh how time truly flies. Living in Cary all my life, it's unbelievable to see the classmates I've known since kindergarten become the promising adults that they're setting off to be. The future is our oyster, and we are its brightest pearls. We may have had our entire senior year online, but if anything, this year has taught me to not take for granted the people that I've--at some point or another-- crossed paths with. We're all so different in our own ways but the unity our class has shown is incredible. Even though we spent practically two years in solitude, we've still managed to keep spirits high and share our pride at Green Hope. As we set off to college, be proud to see the hard work you all put in pay off. I urge you to pursue your passions and as cheesy as it sounds, live your life the way YOU want to. Don't chase after perfection, and be accepting of the fact that sometimes you're going to fail. And that's okay! With that being said, always be kind. A smile can do wonders on anyone. Last but not least, if I ever bump into one of you, don't be a stranger! We did it! Congratulations Green Hope Class of 2021!!

Outstanding Seniors

Teara Anderson -
 “Teara came to Green Hope at the beginning of her junior year and has thrived despite having only been in the building for a few months. She has shown a passion for education and the drive to reach her goals. She is always willing to help and her positivity is evident every time I speak to her. She is someone I would want to have as my own kids’ teacher so I’m very excited to see where her journey in education takes her.” - Jessica Merry, Counselor

James McNear -
 “James is an amazing student in and out of the classroom. He made this first semester of teaching Sports Medicine online truly enjoyable. He always engaged other students and pushed himself to excel in the classroom. He is also an amazing athlete that strived to always set exemplary standards for himself and teammates. No matter the score you could always count on James to be a positive light.” - Casey Williams, Athletic Trainer and Teacher

Soham Gotkhindikar -
 “Soham is an excellent writer and critical thinker. He contributes greatly in class discussions and in one-on-one discussions. He's not afraid to talk about real-world issues and to apply them in what we are learning in the classroom. Soham is very bright and shows respect to his teachers and peers.” - Melanie Diorio, English Teacher

Chuhan Ouyang -
 “Chuhan is one of the most dedicated, hardworking students we have had in some of our science classes over the past four years. She is gracious and always willing to answer questions. She focuses on learning the material, not just making a grade. She has patience for herself, her peers and her teachers when learning. She is one of the most interactive students during online learning that I have in class. Chuhan is a great student all around. She cares for her peers, her teachers and herself. She is hard-working, dedicated and conscientious. She is an absolute pleasure to teach and have in a class.” - Jane Siebert, Science Teacher

Sydney Morgan -
 “Sydney is not only fastidious academically, but she is also intellectually curious and truly engages in class. She goes above and beyond the requirements and is committed to excellence in everything she does.” - Beth Ruggles, English Teacher

Outstanding Seniors

Sidharth Ravi -

"Not only is Sid an exceptional student, he is an amazing leader. Sid embodies what it means to be well-rounded. He shows commitment and passion in everything that he does and he perseveres when things get tough. Throughout his high school career, he has been committed to helping others and brings amazing energy to his surroundings. It has been an absolute pleasure having the opportunity to work with Sid. I know that he will continue to make an impact on his community and will continue to accomplish some remarkable things." - Takeiah Perry, Counselor

Polyna Uzun -

"Personable and humorous, Polyna is a remarkable young woman who relishes difficult texts, thoughtful discussion, and being pushed outside of her own comfort zone. More so than any other student I've taught over the past few years, Polyna's drafts displayed growth in her thinking and writing from the beginning of the assignment to the end. A true scholar, Polyna consistently engages those around her in thoughtful discussion. I am hard-pressed to name another student I have worked with who has nurtured such a diverse set of skills and interests at such a high level." - Caroline Moakley, English Teacher

Jake Park-Walters -

"Jake is an extremely high-quality person who understands how he can impact a situation positively. Jake is intrinsically motivated and uses self-discipline to create a plan towards achieving his goals. Jake is constantly looking out for people, even those he has yet to establish a connection with. He is a reflective person who holds himself accountable for his actions. He is a person you want on your team, a person you want working with you, a person you want living in your community, and a person you want in your life. He works tirelessly to achieve the many goals and ambitions he has created for himself and his environment." - Dave Corsbie, Soccer Coach and Teacher

Nihar Thakkar -

"Nihar is one of the most remarkable young men I've had the fortune of working with in my 29 years as a school counselor. Firstly, Nihar is a stellar student who's been at the top of his class academically since his freshman year. Moreover, throughout high school Nihar has demonstrated strong character, diligent leadership, and dedicated volunteerism that includes hundreds of service hours to our school, community, and beyond. I am confident Nihar will continue making intellectual, cultural, and social contributions to the University of Pennsylvania's campus and community as well." - Allison Tibbetts, Counselor

Benjamin Hunt -

"Ben has dedicated his future to serving in the United States Army after his acceptance to West Point. This is an unbelievable accomplishment. He is a leader in athletics, academics and a good person. He is a great role model for teammates and underclassmen. He believes in being a good friend, and a good son/brother. He is proficient in answering riddles and telling good stories so whenever you need someone to talk to he is always there to listen and help when asked to do so." - Ashley Davidson, Athletic Trainer and Teacher

Seniors, this year has not been easy, but you are all stronger for it. If you can learn virtually during a pandemic, you can do anything. Good luck to all of you!

Ms. Diorio_Staff - GreenHope HS

I am so proud of you all and am lucky to have taught a few senior classes this year! Some of you I taught as sophomores, as well, and it has been so rewarding to see your progress. I commend you for handling these past two years and working hard in spite of the pandemic. I wish you the best of luck in all of your future endeavors! Stay safe and be well.

Mrs. Parkin_Staff - GreenHope HS

So proud of you all and so happy that your future--which really begins now-- looks so much brighter than it did a year ago! In the words of our Vice President in her own message to the Class of 2021: "You now know, that you have what it takes to get through pretty much anything."

Ms. Mackey_Staff - GreenHope HS

In a year dominated by the 3 Ws, you all deserve a lot of credit for the way you've demonstrated the 3 Ss – Self-advocating in a dynamic learning environment, Sacrificing your individual preferences for the good of the group, and creating new structures for yourselves as you tapped into Self-discipline that will serve you well in adulthood. It wasn't fair that nearly half your high school career overlapped a global pandemic but as you grieve for what was lost, find hope in the fact that the last group of kids to grow up during a global pandemic and economic hardship one hundred years ago became known as "The Greatest Generation."

"This ain't no party. This ain't no disco. This ain't no fooling around." - David Byrne, Talking Heads. "Enjoy life, but have a purpose to what you do that benefits others."

Mr. McIntyre_Staff - GreenHope HS

Do what you enjoy, embrace the journey, and celebrate the small successes.

Ms. Merry_Staff - GreenHope HS

Good luck in all of the things you do and places you go! Keep growing and challenging yourselves and those around you to be kind and better people. Congratulations!

Dr. Hedrick _ Staff- GreenHopeHS

Falcons, your last years at Green Hope were unexpected, but they gave you both challenges and opportunities. As you walk off the field as graduates, I hope you have the knowledge of the strength and courage it took you to get where you are. Congratulations, GHHS Class of 2021...you will always be Falcons!
