On Monday of this week, you received your child's Beginning of Grade (BOG) reading test score. The BOG is an assessment of all 3rd grade reading standards to determine students who may need extra support during the year to successfully master the reading standards by the end of the year. The End of Grade (EOG) reading test will be administered at the end of the year again for all students to assess mastery of the standards. Both assessments and the instruction that occurs between the two are part of the NC State Law- Read to Achieve.

According to your child's BOG score, he/she may be a student who needs additional support during the year to meet the requirements of the Read to Achieve law. We are currently administering the mClass reading benchmark assessments for all students to identify areas where students have any reading weaknesses. Information from this assessment will be shared with all families.

To learn more about the Read to Achieve Law and its implications for 3rd grade students in North Carolina, please attend one of the information sessions that will be offered at Farmington Woods Elementary:
