Unit 2: Reading and Writing to Inform: Overcoming Learning Challenges—Books

Guiding Questions and Big Ideas

▪ Why are education, books, and reading important?

  Education, books, and reading are important because they help us learn about the make sense of the world, and escape into the lives of other people and other worlds.

▪ How can I overcome learning challenges?

  I can overcome learning challenges by being an effective learner: taking initiative and responsibility, persevering, and collaborating.

Please note: The guiding question and big idea are framed in the context that education, books, and reading are important for college and career readiness.

What will your student be doing at school?

In Unit 2, students move from analyzing challenges others face in accessing schools to analyzing challenges faced in accessing books around the world. Students closely read excerpts from My Librarian Is a Camel, which describes ways people living in different countries around the world access books. For a mid-unit assessment, students demonstrate their reading skills by reading a new excerpt from this book and determining its main idea.

In the second half of the unit, students switch gears to writing informative texts. Using what they have learned about reading informational texts in the first half of the unit, they plan, write, revise, and edit an informative paragraph describing how people in a particular country have overcome the challenge of access to books. For the End of Unit 2 Assessment, students write a new informative paragraph describing the challenge and how it has been overcome, using evidence from the excerpt from My Librarian Is a Camel read for the mid-unit assessment.

Working to become an ethical person is a habit of character that is emphasized in this unit. These are the specific learning skills students will focus on:

▪ I show empathy. This means I understand and I share or take into account the feelings, situation, or attitude of others.
• I behave with integrity. This means I am honest and do the right thing, even when it’s difficult, because it is the right thing to do.
• I show respect. This means I appreciate the abilities, qualities, and achievements of others and treat myself, others, and the environment with care.
• I show compassion. This means I notice when others are sad or upset and try to help them.

Informational Texts Handout

• Informational texts inform or teach a reader about a topic.
• Informational texts often have text features that the author uses to help the reader understand and find information in the text.
• Informational texts are based on research the author does before writing and list sources used in research.
• Informational texts are focused on the same topic throughout the piece.
• Informational texts are clearly presented and easy to understand.
• Informational texts often have illustrations that support the text.
• Informational texts introduce the topic with a focus statement, develop the topic with evidence such as facts and details, and end with a concluding statement or section.
• Informational texts group related information together to explain a main idea.

How can you support your student at home?

• Talk to your student about the challenges people face in accessing books around the world and how these challenges are overcome.
• Talk to your student about his or her informative paragraph and the elements of an effective informative text.
• Read informational books, if possible about people who overcome challenges, and talk to your student about the main idea of these texts.

Unit 2: Homework

In Lessons 1–6 and 11–12, homework focuses on research reading.

In Lessons 7–10, homework focuses on research reading and informational writing in preparation for the end of unit assessment in Lesson 11.

Research reading: Your student is expected to independently research the topic by reading topic-related books of his or her choice for approximately 20 minutes each day and responding to a prompt of choice in the front of the independent reading journal. These are usually books your student will bring home from school; however, they may be topic-related books chosen by the student at the public or home library. Prompts for independent reading can be found in the homework materials provided.

Choice reading: If your student would also like to independently read and respond to a book of free choice, he or she may use the back of the independent reading journal. Prompts for independent reading can be found in the homework materials provided.
Vocabulary logs:

- In the front, students record new academic vocabulary: words you might find in informational texts on many different topics. For example, the words challenges, questions, and explain are words that could be found in books on any topic.
- In the back, students record new topical vocabulary: words about a particular topic. For example, the words tadpoles, frogspawn, and amphibian are words that would be found on the topic of frogs.

Independent Reading (For Families)

Directions: Remember to record responses to research reading in the front of your independent reading journal and responses to choice reading in the back. Try to choose a different prompt each time.

Record any new vocabulary in your vocabulary log. Remember, academic vocabulary is recorded in the front, and domain-specific vocabulary (words about the topic) is recorded in the back. Mark vocabulary found during independent reading with a symbol such as an asterisk (*).

Record:

- Date
- Title and author of your reading book
- Pages you have read
- Prompt
- Response

Example:

Date: 04/08/2015

Book Title and Author: "My Librarian Is a Camel" by Margriet Ruurs

Pages Read: Thailand, pages 28-29

Prompt: What is the main idea of the text you read? What are some of the key details, and how do they support the main idea?

Response: The main idea is that elephants help some students in the Omkoi region of Thailand get books and learn. Some of the key details that support this main idea are that more than 20 elephants are being used to carry books, and in each trip the elephants visit seven or eight villages. The elephants carry metal slates on their backs to teach students to read and write.
Independent Reading Prompts

Consider using the following independent reading prompts:

▪ What challenges are faced? How are they overcome?
▪ What is the theme or main idea of the text? What are some of the key details, and how do they support the main idea?
▪ What do the illustrations (photographs, maps) tell you? How do they help you understand the words?
▪ What questions do you now have after reading? What would you like to learn more about? Why?
▪ What does the text tell you about the importance of reading, books, or education?
▪ What are the most important facts you learned from reading?
▪ What is the most interesting fact you learned today? Why?
▪ How does what you read today connect to something you have learned in previous lessons?
▪ Choose one new word from your reading today and analyze it on a vocabulary square:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Definition in your own words</th>
<th>Synonyms (words that mean the same)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Words with the same affix or root</td>
<td>Sketch</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Informative Writing Prompts

Directions: In the classroom, you have been reading and writing informational texts.

Choose a prompt to respond to. For each response, be sure to use the informative writing techniques discussed in class and develop the topic with facts, definitions, and details from the text. Try to choose a different prompt each time.

▪ Read about a new country in My Librarian Is a Camel. Describe the geography of that country.
• Read about a new country in My Librarian Is a Camel. Explain the challenge some people face in accessing books in that country.
• Read about a new country in My Librarian Is a Camel. Explain how some people have overcome the challenge of accessing books in that country.
• Compare and contrast the geography of your expert group’s country to the geography of Kenya.
• Compare and contrast how some people in your expert group’s country access books and how some people in Kenya access books.
